

Ian Mackintosh

From: ian mackintosh <>
Sent: 01 December 2016 16:47
To: POLICYREVIEW
Subject: Public Consultation - Pike Management in Brown Trout Fisheries

Sir/Madam

Ireland is World famous for the quality it's Brown Trout fishing , with the Western Loughs , and in particular Lough Corrib , regarded as the premier Wild Brown Trout Fisheries in Europe. Careful management of these waters has led to the first class Trout fishing which anglers from all over the World come to experience . The designation of select Irish waters as a Wild Brown Trout Fisheries and the excellent work by IFI in protecting the Trout's habitat and environment has contributed hugely to Ireland prospering as an Trout angling destination while other Fisheries around Europe fall into decline. Any change to the management policy of Irish Trout Waters would, I feel , be a huge mistake and I urge you to keep our Wild Brown Trout Fisheries as they are - World Class.

Sincerely

Ian Mackintosh